Happy New Year Greetings to All

New faces appear on Bethel area business scene

A number of new faces have appeared on the business scene in the Bethel area in recent weeks.

The popular Trap Corner Store in West Paris, gathering place for most of the workers at Penley's mill and immortalized in a 33⅓ record by West Paris storyteller Joe Perham, was recently purchased by Gene and Gerry DeShon of Oxford.

After having passed through a number of owners—the most recent lasting only six months—the store is now back in the hands of the family that started it in 1933. That's when Gene DeShon's uncle, Bill Dudley of Bryant Pond, began the store. Mr. DeShon is also a Bryant Pond native.

The original structure burned down about 15 years ago and was rebuilt in its present form.

Gerry DeShon is a native of West Paris and is delighted to be back working in her old town and seeing the familiar faces daily. "It's something we had thought of for a long time, but it's hard to do when you're raising kids," she said. The four kids are now raised, and two of them help out at the store.

Mr. DeShon gave up a masonry business to become a storekeeper/restaurateur, and he's glad of it. "I got sick of mason work," he said. A son is now doing the masonry business.

The DeShons say the hours are long—16 hours a day, seven days a week—but the rewards are such as hearing all the local news soon after people start coming in for breakfast at 5:30 a.m. In the course of a weekend, which is when the store is jampacked, Mrs. DeShon figures most of the town of 1,400 souls passes through the place. Wives looking for their husbands know where to check, she says, and often ask her to have them bring home a loaf of bread or something else from the store.

GERRY DESHON and her husband Gene are the new owners of the well-known Trap Corner Store and Restaurant in West Paris. The store was started by Gene's uncle, Bill Dudley, of Bryant Pond, in 1933, and has passed through a half-dozen owners since then, finally winding up with the original family.

WOODSTOCK SELECTMEN TO MEET SUNDAY NIGHT—NEED NEW ROAD COMMISSIONER

The Woodstock Board of Selectmen will meet Sunday, 7 p.m., at the town hall and will likely select a road commissioner. Roger Benson resigned the post this week, effective Dec. 30.

Selectman Clifford York said, "Ideally the town would elect (a new road commissioner)." But, he said, that would require a special town meeting. Since the regular town meeting is only two months away, and since a road commissioner is needed immediately. The selectmen are leaning towards appointing someone in the interim.

"We're strongly considering appointing someone," said Selectman York.

The selectmen have already spoken informally with two interested residents, Mr. York said. He added, "There is not much interest in the job."

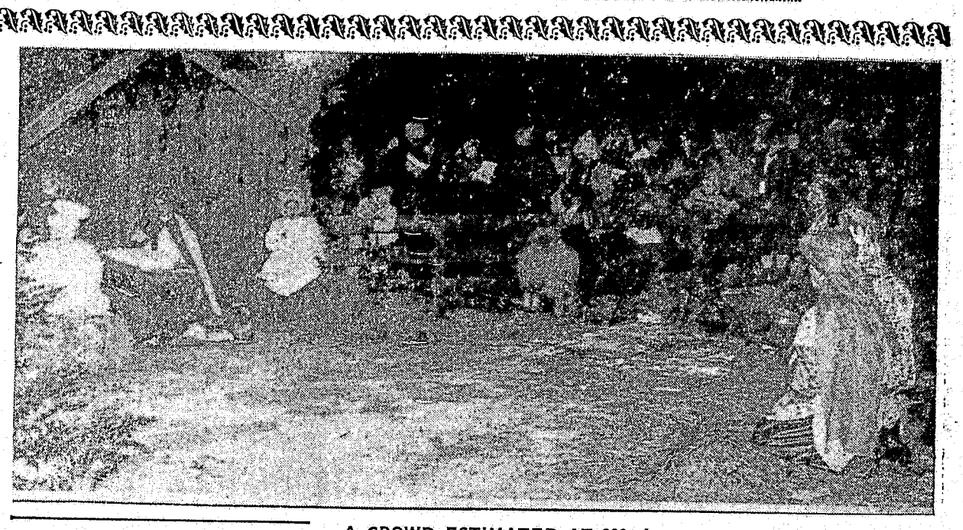
PASSING SCHOOL BUSES DISPLAYING FLASHING RED LIGHTS A "NO-NO"

Deputy Sheriff Bill Williams reminds area motorists that they must stop for school buses loading or discharging children, when the the bus is flashing its red stop lights.

Deputy Williams notes that many drivers are becoming lax about staying behind stopped buses and are proceeding around the buses even when the buses are stopped.

The pertinent section of the state statute reads: "The operator of a vehicle on a way, upon meeting or overtaking a school bus from either direction which has stopped, with its red lights flashing, on the way to receive or discharge school children, shall stop that vehicle before reaching that school bus and that operator shall not proceed until that school bus resumes motion or until signaled by the school bus operator to proceed."

The statute goes on to authorize the following penalties: "Any operator who fails to comply with this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $500, or by imprisonment for not more than 90 days, or by both."



Crowds watch 'Nativity'; players find fresh values

A CROWD ESTIMATED AT 300 showed up for the 4:30 performance of the Living Nativity on the Bethel Common Sunday evening. The manger was surrounded by wise men and shepherds, and the chorus sang carols to accompany the narration of the Christmas story. In charge of the production was Maryvonne Wheeler.

Judy and Seam Shedd were glad that Maryvonne Wheeler asked them to portray Mary and Joseph in Bethel's annual "Living Nativity" production, which had two performances on the Common Sunday evening.

"It was pretty nice to be taking part in the story of Christmas," said Dr. Shedd.

Husband Seam recalled afterwards, "As we were walking down the path to the manger, I remember looking up at the sky and seeing all the stars. It (the Christmas story) has a way of tying us into the universe. It has a way of tying people together through the years. This has been going on for 2,000 years."

Portraying the Holy Infant was the Shedd's five-week-old daughter Anna Rose. "We were a little nervous about the baby," said the mother, "it's so small."

And being a baby, Anna Rose whimpered on occasion, not enough, however, to distract from the proceedings. "That let everyone know it was a real baby," said the father.

There were also a real sheep, a real goat, lots of make-believe shepherds, wise men and angels, and a dog. And a large audience estimated at 300 for the first performance and somewhat less for the second performance.

Coordinating the entire extravaganza was Maryvonne Wheeler,

South Woodstock

— Olive Davis, Corres. —

This has been a fairly warm week in December which seemed good. We did have a little snow that I had plowed as it was quite damp.

Friday Esther Davis and I attended the open house at the Bethel Citizen office. It was interesting to see the old machines the Browns have used for years, since '28, I believe they said to print the Citizen. They were run for the guests' benefit a little while. Now, more efficient machinery is expected to replace these machines soon. We were pleased to meet the new owner. Many thanks for the invitation.

The Willing Workers held their Christmas party at Mr. and Mrs. Morgan's Thursday, Dec. 20.

We are so sorry to hear of Mr. and Mrs. Deven Andrews' home burning in Greenwood.

Esther Davis reported that her brother-in-law, James Whittemore, is improving. He is in the Franklin Memorial Hospial, Farmington, in the intensive care unit. Her sister-in-law, Hazel Brown, is also in the same hospital having tests at present.

Arthur Thurlow is in Stephens Memorial Hospital. He has had a leg removed. We hope everyone will send him cards.

Lenwood Andrews is in Brandon, Fla., where he reports he had good luck in fishing. He caught a 30 lb. and 20 lb. cobia. That's a lot of fish I'd say.

Greenwood City

— Mrs. Celista Morgan, Corres. —

After so many gray days and nights, it was pure joy to again see the stars. They are real companions in the country, as I sometimes watch them from my windows. No doubt I study them in a mood more poetic than scientific, more from enjoyment than in seriousness. They twinkle from horizon to horizon.

In the morning it was crispy and gray but cleared with the sun sparkling on the new fallen snow. This was wealth beyond measure to see the shimmering diamond treasure. I strapped on my snowshoes and set out for the farm fields.

Looking down onto the pond; the pond was rippled in patterns, where the wind had written its story.

As I traveled, I looked about with delight for I had not been this way for a long time. Over the whiteness of the valley my eyes captured pictures for miles across the ponds and to the snow-patterned hills of dark green trees.

I heard a rustling and looked down to see a beech leaf bent over like a little toad, scrambling across my path. It then moved to another section crossing ever so many trails made by rabbits.

As I neared the gate to the fields I knew I would have to untie ropes so that I could go through to the fields. I found this very difficult for the knots had been there through all kinds of weather and for some time. With only my fingers and my key from my pocket I found it slow work. After 20 minutes the last knot gave up because I wouldn't. I left the gate open and climbed the hills. I rested and looked around. The blue dome of the sky was softening against the west. By the wall the snow was lapped with many shadows. In places the snow was packed from the play of the wind so it had lost its fur-like softness.

The grace of the white birches was eye-catching. It would be hard to picture a northeastern hillside without these trees against the evergreens on a winter landscape.

I looked to the skyline and to Overset Mountain then retraced my trail down the hill.

Some of the pines were so tall that they seemed to hold up the sky.

The state of Maine is best known for its summer dress, but those who live here realize the amazing changes of beauty from season to season.

The show there was now over so I went through the gate and down the Bulldozer Road toward home. I was pleased that I could handle the "shoes" after so long a time of not using them.

All the way I watched the sun along the western horizon, as it peeked through leafless trees while the background showed lemon colored glory. SUN was ending its path for the day and in such a beautiful way.

Greenwood City has a very unique Christmas tree and so beautiful. It stands by our neighbor's house and can be seen for some distance up or down the road. The many strings of lights form it into an eye-catching shape. Each string is attached at the top of a tall pole and brought down to be fasened to a large hoop. It has brought many exclamations about its beauty from those who have driven by.

On Friday my brother, Fred, and wife, Rena, called to visit us for a while. Later my niece, Mrs. Lucy Bragg, and son, Tommy, came. On Saturday my nieces, Lillian Strait, Colista Cogswell, of Freeport, and Betty Curtis, Town; Mr. and Mrs. Gary Green of Freeport. Getting everything to come out even

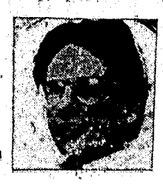
A NOTE FROM THE PUBLISHER



B. F. Wideman

During The Citizen's open house honoring its correspondents two weeks ago, one of the ladies asked an interesting question, "How do you manage to make everything come out even?" she asked.

What she was wondering about was how her, and her fellow correspondents', columns fit into the paper week after week, with hardly a line left out and with no blank spaces when someone doesn't write as much as usual or her column isn't received in time.

It is sort of magic, if you think about it. Here you have a finite amount of space on the blank pages that will become the newspaper, yet you have a random amount of material to put in it—some weeks more, some weeks less. How is it that the paper is always an even eight pages or an even 10 pages — never 8½ pages or 9½ pages, but always eight or 10?

Here's how it works: an eight-page issue of The Citizen will have a total of 948 column inches. (A column inch is one inch of copy one column wide). Early in the week we usually know how much advertising we have for that week's paper. (We usually have about 50% advertising, considerably less than most papers.) Once we know how much advertising we have, we can figure out how much space we'll have available for editorial matter, that is, stories, photos, columns, club notices, etc.

Why should advertising get priority over news? This is a question I used to ponder when I was a beat reporter on a daily paper in Florida and an editor would trim some of my deathless prose. It wasn't until years later that I understood the theoretical position that gives to advertiers, in effect, the prerogative to dictate how much space any newspaper will have remaining for its news.

The fact of the matter is that in addition to reporting the news, newspapers are in the business of renting space on their pages for messages from advertisers. When we make a contract with an advertiser, we promise that he or she will have that space for their message, in exchange for payment for the space. If we were to put in the news first and then fill in with ads, we would likely be breaching our contract with someone who had paid good money to get his message in.

So we first total up the amount of column inches of ads and then see how much space we have left over. And usually it will be about half of the usable space of the paper.

Let's say we have an unusually large amount of advertising, as we've had the past few weeks. Then we have to decide if we'll have enough, plus the editorial matter, to fill 10 pages. If the answer is "yes," we begin planning for the larger paper.

Having decided on the size of the paper for the week, how do we then manage to get in all the news so that things come out even?

The answer is, we don't. Every issue we publish requires a compromise here or there, because almost always we'll have more material than we can possibly get into the paper in any given week.

Consider the alternative. If we had too little material, there would be some startling "holes" in the paper—white spaces on which we had nothing to print. So we're like the hostess who invites people to dinner: we always like to prepare a little extra.

This means, of course, that not everything will get used. We make certain that items of timely importance get in the paper, such as meeting notices, births, deaths, sports results, and what took place at a town meeting the night before we went to press. Then there are all of our loyal columnists. Their columns, like the news stories, usually get into the paper in total, but during a crowded week, might get trimmed slightly, as might a news story. (This is the reason, by the way, that journalists are taught to get all the important information, such as the who, what, why, when, where, into the beginning of the article, because the bottom of the article might be excised.)

Then we begin looking for items that can wait a week, or two, or more. (The write-up of my wedding to Mary, has been waiting for months, though our editor, John Brown, assures me it might make it into the paper this week.)

Photos are often "holdable." Obviously, a photo of a fire or an event of immediate interest cannot be held. But a team photo, or a swearing-in ceremony, or an engagemeannt or wedding photo, can be—and are—often held in abeyance to make room for timely news items.

This is always regrettable whenever it happens, because photos help to dress up the paper and often are worth the proverbial thousand words. But if something has to be held, it's usually a photo.

Sometimes they get held too long. For example, we still have photos here of the Telstar class officers, taken at the beginning of the school year, and the sunshine and short-sleeved shirts make them inappropriate right now. (We may wait till spring to run them.)

Also holdable are feature stories, social announcements, such as who was promoted at his/her job or who made the dean's list at college, and recipes and historical columns.

Putting together your weekly newspaper is like putting together a picture puzzle, except that the editor has options so that the finished picture may look one way or it may look another way. And unlike with a picture puzzle, when the puzzle of putting together the newspaper is worked out, there will be pieces left over.

What the final picture puzzle looks like also depends a lot on where the various stories and photos are placed. That is yet a different problem, with its own set of constraints, and I'll possibly explain at a later date how we make the decisions we do on where things should go in the paper.

NEW FACES/AREA BUSINESSES

A general store that may soon have new owners is the Hanover General Store and post office in Hanover. Current owners, Frank and Bess Ettl, have owned the store for the past five years and are ready to move on. Mr. Ettl would like to find a full-time position with the postal service, he says.

Another convenience store has been added to the number of convenience stores in the Bethel area. Part of Sunday River Resort, the new store is located at the lower portion of the skiway, in the new building.

It is called The Exchequer Mountain Grocery and is managed by Lydia Bothen, of Albany. A native of Albany, Ms. Bothen was away for a number of years in Ellsworth, where she owned a restaurant. She returned to this area this summer and was working at the Bethel Inn prior to taking over management of the new store.

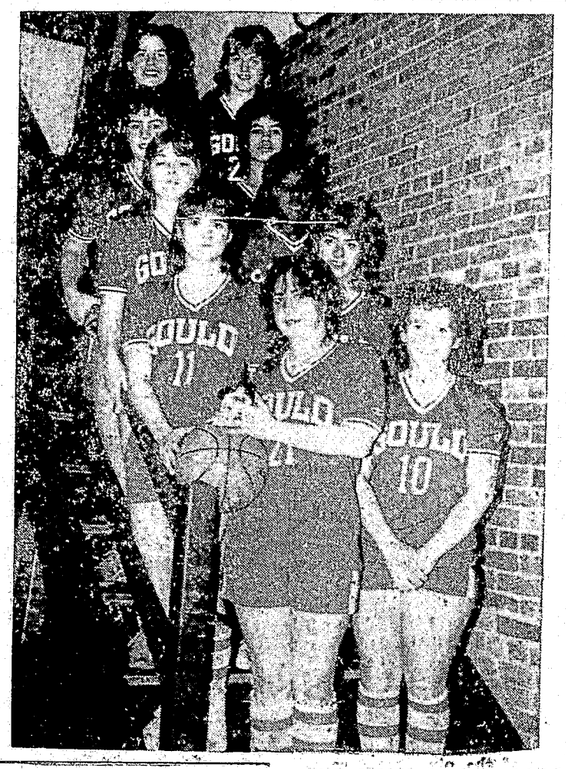
The store is stocked to cater to the needs of guests staying at the hillside condominiums, and is well-stocked with easy-to-fix foods, wines, and an exotic deli counter, with such delicacies as caviar and smoked trout.

The Exchequer Mountain Grocery is open seven days a week.

Coming back towards Bethel from Sunday River is the C. N. Brown Gulf station, which has been leased by Bill Harvey, of Otisfield.

Mr. Harvey is a professional mechanic, who has built and raced stock cars. He has also held positions as service manager in two Ford dealerships.

He likes being his own boss, however, and was delighted to have the opportunity of opening his own service station in Bethel. He hopes to develop a good trade for his mechanic's skills. "The town can use another good mechanic," he says.



THE 1984-85 GOULD girls' basketball team is composed of, top to bottom, Debra Dohrmann, coach; Susan desGrosseilliers, Debbie Glasgow, Susan Isham, Ruthie Giles, Barbie Robinson, Rainy Orteca, Erin Barrett, Samantha Welsh and Stacey Sumner. The girl Huskies dropped their first three games of the season, to Telstar, Waynflete and St. Doms. As Coach Dohrmann says, "When you have a hundred girls (in the school) and 80 of them ski . . ." She expects a rough season.

The Truth About Strep Throat

As many of you know, several cases of strep throat have been diagnosed in our community in the last few weeks. I hope to share some information that will help get treatment to those who need it as well as dispel many fears and anxieties about this illness.

The streptococcal germ that causes this type of sore throat actually lives peacefully on the skin and in the throats of many of us all the time. Most adults during the course of our lives have built up natural defenses against the germ so that it does not usually infect us. Children, however, do not have such defenses and therefore often become infected by the germ. Some of the factors which contribute to children becoming infected are: cold weather, already having a viral infection (cold or flu), being tired, being in groups and contact with the germ. The infection probably spreads from person to person through secretions from the nose and mouth. Not all children who are exposed to the infection will get it, but those who do will develop symptoms one to three days after exposure. Fortunately, babies do not usually get infected because of protection they receive from their mothers' blood stream before birth. The child with strep throat usually has a sore throat, fever (usually above 101°), swollen neck glands and loss of appetie. He or she may also complain of headache, ear ache, abdominal pain or vomiting. Remember that a child with strep throat may have only one or two of these symptoms. A runny nose and cough do not usually occur with strep throat.

You may be surprised to learn that SCARLET FEVER means simply strep throat with a rash caused by certain varieties of the germ. The rash is usually pinpoint pink or red, often slightly bumpy (like sandpaper), and sometimes includes fine scaling of the skin. The tongue may be involved in the rash also. Scarlet fever's bad name comes from the days before the discovery of penicillin, when complications such as abscesses, pneumonia, meningitis, rheumatic fever and kidney disease were not uncommon.

Fortunately, most children nowadays recover completely from strep throat after proper treatment with penicillin either by mouth for 10 days or by injection. (Another antibiotic is used for those allergic to penicillin.) Children with the infection generally need not be strictly isolated and are no longer contagious 24 hours after beginning penicillin.

How can you know when your child has a strep throat? If your child has only a sore throat, and no one in your household has a strep infection, you can assume that the child probably does not have strep. Given the amount of strep thoat in our community this winter, however, if your child has any of the symptoms mentioned earlier, he or she should be evaluated by a doctor or other health care provider. That person may decide to do a strep test—a way of taking germs from the back of the throat to confirm the diagnosis. If the diagnosis is strep, penicillin will be prescribed for the child and possibly for famly members as well.

If you have further questions about strep throat or scarlet fever, please feel free to call us at the Health Center, 824-2193.

FARRINGTON - BRIGGS

The Andover Congregational Church was the setting for the Oct. 6 wedding, uniting Sharon K. Briggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Briggs of Andover, and Mark L. Farrington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Farrington of East Andover. Rev. Marriotte Churchill performed the early afternoon ceremony.

CROSS-COUNTRY & JUMPING COACHES' CLINIC BEING HELD AT GOULD ACADEMY, JAN. 5-6

Nordic skiing is a sport that has been changing a lot over the past decades, while still maintaining many of its old traditions. Maine has produced national team, olympic, and top college skiers in the past, due to a favorable climate, a strong skiing tradition, and good coaching. To continue to be a strong skiing area, it is important that coaches remain informed on the progress that has been made with training methods and equipping methods and equipment in recent years.

The United States Ski Coaches Association (USSCA) and the United States Ski Team coaching staff will be running a cross-country clinic on Saturday, Jan. 5, and a jumping clinic on Sunday, Jan. 6, at Gould Academy.

The clinics will be conducted by Steven Gaskill, former national and olympic combined coach and current USSCA nordic director, who will talk about the most recent developments in skiing being implemented by the U.S. cross-country and jumping teams. Topics will include ski technique, equipment, and sport psychology and physiologoy, and will be supplemented by films and videos of world class competitors.

The clinics are being sponsored by the Bethel Outing Club and hosted by Gould Academy, and are to take place at Gould Academy, and will take place in Bingham Hall. Both clinics will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Registration is from 8:30 to 9 a.m. on both days. The fee for one clinic is $8, or $12 for those attending both the jumping and the cross-country.

Interested skiers, parents, and nordic enthusiasts in the area are welcome to attend the clinics. Young skiers will find the lectures helpful and interesting, and will have a chance to see what is happening out in the world of nordic skiing; for coaches each clinic offers a day full of indispensable knowledge.

Anyone having questions should call 824-3224, 824-2161, or 824-3343.

WIDEMAN - CLARK

Mary Clark and Bernard Wideman were married Saturday, Oct. 13, in a ceremony before friends and family at the Sudbury Inn. The Rev. Robert Dobson, former minister of the First Church of Ipswich, Mass., and current minister of the Congregational Church of Hampstead, N. H., officiated.

Maid of honor was Katie Clark, one of Ms. Clark's three children. Her son, Jon Clark, was in attendance. Her other daughter, Susannah, was away at college, the University of California at Berkeley.

The best man was Harvey Kline, of Talcottville, Conn., an old friend of the groom, from when both were in graduate school at the University of Washington.

Ms. Clark is the daughter of Johnny and Lucille Morris, of Tuscaloosa, Ala. She is an associate professor at the University of New Hampshire, where she teaches linguistics. This year she is on sabbatical and is at work on two books; one, an English grammar for high school teachers; the other an explanation and analysis of the African language Igbo.

Mr. Wideman is the son of Mervin and Lili Wideman, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. He came to Bethel a month ago, with his bride and her daughter Katie, when he became publisher of the Bethel Citizen. He had previously lived in Ipswich, Mass., where he had been editor of the Ipswich Chronicle.

The groom's mother came up from Florida for the weekend as did his sister Linda Israel, who came up from Cinnaminson, N. J. The Clark-Wideman home on Park Street was packed with friends from Ipswich and from Newmarket, N. H., which had been Ms. Clark's home. Many of the guests stayed for the weekend, either with the newlyweds or at local inns.

On Saturday, following the wedding luncheon, the wedding party moved to the offices of The Citizen, where Editor John Brown and Printer Don Brown explained the workings of the shop.

Mrs. Dorothy Bean has returned to her home following surgery at Stephens Memorial Hospital

Songo Pond

— Mrs. Ralph Kimball, Corres. —

This community was shocked and saddened this weekend to learn of the death of Mrs. Marian C. Lincoln Saturday night, Dec. 22, 1984, at the home of her son, Dr. Robert C. Lincoln in Hingham, Mass. The Lincolns were year round residents of Albany since 1962 until the death of Mr. Lincoln. Since then she had spent her summers here and loved her home in Maine. Previously they had been in the New Jersey school system. Besides her son she leaves three daughters, Mrs. Mary Ellen Connolly, Mrs. Margaret Rose Blaha, and Mrs. Patricia Katz, all of New Jersey; several grandchildren and great grandchildren; a sister and brother.

Graveside services and burial will be in the Songo Cemetery Friday afternoon, Dec. 28. Our deepest sympathy to her family.

Fred Awalt and Allie Bickford of Auburn were recent callers of the Jesse Doyens.

Mrs. Anita Parsons of Jupiter, Fla., came Saturday to spend the holidays with her daughter, Elisha and other relatives. Tom Parsons will undergo back surgery Monday morning. Warren Parsons of Bath spent the weekend with his parents and did some skiing.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Gatchell of Gorham, Maine, were weekend vistors here and of his folks in Bryant Pond.

One thing you can learn by watch the clock—you can pass the time by keeping your hands busy.

North Paris

— Eveline B. Vatcher, Corres. —

We have a nice new blanket of snow this Saturday morning to remind us that winter is upon us. It will make better sledding for Santa Claus.

Mrs. Rena Rainey and son had Eveline Vatcher were in Bethel Monday for allergy shots.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher went to Danvers, Mass., Tuesday to visit Joe's mother, Mrs. Fannie Vatcher and found her in good spirits and improving since the pace maker operation. She was singing to the nurses "She'll Be Coming Round the Mountain When She Comes." She did a fine job for a 93 year old lady and you should have seen the expressions on her face. Not even one tiny snowflake in Massachusetts and nearly every pick-up truck was sporting a snowplow.

Wednesday we stayed home for the oxygen man to bring a new barrel and to supervise the installation of the satellite antenna base.

Thursday the Vatchers went to Fryeburg to call on Freddie Woods and give him a fresh rabbit. We couldn't get any answer so went to Kendall Ham's in Bridgton and he told us Fred was in the hospital so Joe called on him but it was too far for Eveline to walk so she waited in the warm truck.

Friday the Vatchers went to Gilford, N.H., to call on Joe's niece, Linda Wright, hubby Mark and three boys and to deliver their Chrismtas gifts.

Saturday and Eveline is making popcorn balls for herself and several family members. Is it any wonder that she hasn't had time to gather any news. They say no news is good news and I hope so.

Doris and "Root" Lawernce had a two day vacation this past week when the color TV broke down. The man came Friday and replaced a tube so everything on the hill is alright now.

New Year Greetings to everyone and keep it safe.

Kathy Deegan Lessard telephoned home from Hawaii Friday. She will be spending Christmas in San Diego with her husband Hank.

Florence Beck, Randolph, N.H., Carroll Murphy, Joan and Uljas Deegan, West Bethel, will join Joe and Leah Deegan for an oyster stew supper Christmas Eve. Florence stayed over for Christmas.

Wednesday Maude Harrington attended the annual Christmas party put on by Dorothy Sanchez, Rumford, for former and current University of Maine Nutrition Aides and Agents.

Maude's visitors over the pre-holiday weekend were Harlan Hutchins and Lee and Ginny Hutchins, Bethel.

Louise, Christian and Verina Robiller visited Joe and Muriel Gilbert one day last week.

Callers at Irene Wilson's have been: Ruth Wilkinson, Michael Wilson, Bruce Greenleaf and Vicki Wilson. Saturday evening Gloria Wilson telephoned that she and Paul had just arrived home after a three week vacation in Florida.

There is the old saying that "as the days begin to lengthen, the cold begins to strengthen." I never thought it was instantaneous though. The days started to get longer after Friday and this Monday morning the temperature is in the single digits.

Pack 566 News

Cub Scout Pack 566 met Tuesday, Dec. 18, for their monthly meeting and annual Christmas party. Den #3, with their leader, Jennifer Orino, led the opening ceremony.

Boys who advanced this past month were: to the rank of wolf, Josh Paquette, Josh Otten and Nathan Harvey. Steven Remington earned his Bear badge. The following boys all earned and received their Webelos badge, Howard Rice, Jeremiah Mills, Brian Davis, Patrick Harrington, Nathaniel Craig, Jason Walega, Jason Mathias, Jody Brooks, Chris Cordwell and Mathew Arsenault. Scientist Activity badges were also earned by Howard Rice, Matt Arsenault, Nathaniel Craig and Patrick Harrington. Howard Rice earned his Traveler Activity Badge.

The Cub Scouts presented to two representatives of the West Bethel Head Start the Doll House project they had completed. This doll house will give some lucky little people many hours of enjoyment and the Cub Scouts feel honored to be a part of it.

Introduced as Webelos Den #2 assistant leader was Stan Wilson. New committee members are Dennis and Joanne Andre. It was also announced that Dewaine Craig had accepted the Assistant Cubmaster's position. Pack 566 is very grateful to have such dedicated leaders.

Pinewood Derby materials were distributed to the boys. Because of the size of the Pack this year and the time involved, the Derby will be held Saturday, Jan. 19, 1985, at the Telstar Cafeteria. Weigh-in of the cars will begin at 11:30 with the races to begin at 12:00.

After the meeting a Christmas party was enjoyed by the boys. Santa appeared briefly and handed out bags of popcorn and gifts to the cubs. The cubs presented Mrs. H. a lovely bouquet of flowers. The committee is to be congratulated on the fine job they did preparing and decorating. Everyone certainly had a great time.

Next month's pack meeting will be Jan. 29, 1985, at 6:30 p.m. at the Telstar Cafeteria. Den #4 will be in charge of the opening and closing ceremonies.

High St., West Paris

Sent in by Viva Whitman:

A snowy night and still storming a little as I sit down to write a few lines. It will only be a few lines as I am still shaky from being in the hospital. Got home last Monday and should have gotten more strength by now, or at least that is the way it seems, but it doesn't come back as fast as I'd like it to.

Haven't been in the hospital to stay since 1976 and this was too soon, but it is a good place to be if one needs care. Have had bronchitis and don't know what other little bug joined that, but it rather laid me low for a little. They say you can't keep a good man down, but it didn't take too much to get to me this time.

Anyway, am sorry I didn't get to say A Verly Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all in this last week's paper. It is a little belated, but hope all my friends and readers have a great Holiday Season.

I would like to thank the staff at Stephens Memorial Hospital for the nice care they took care of me and to Dr. Ware and Dr. Medd for watching over me. I needed attention and though I wasn't one of his regular patients, Dr. Ware was most kind and good to me. Dr. Medd took over during the weekend and with the breathing therapy etc., I am feeling some better. I have lost some of the weight I needed to and just a little too fast I guess as it makes me feel weak, but the good Lord willing, I will gain in time, not the weight, but the ambition that I lack now.

I wasn't up to putting up our Christmas tree, so Russell took over and it looks really pretty to me. He had to do the cooking etc. and the food has tasted good, too. My plants look as though they could use a little attention, so got to get busy, but had a few things I do to get ready for Christmas and hope to get it done.

Had a hospital bed brought in yesterday as I can't seem to sleep lying very flat so got more rest last night and the bed was quite comfortable to sleep in. It is amazing how much junk anyone can make up in their lungs, but it seems as though the more you get rid of, the more there is that makes up. Maybe in time, it will stop and then I can lie down flatter as I like to do to sleep. Anyway it's good to be home. The doctors seem to think there is still formaldehyde in the home, so Russell called to the State Department of Health and they have been here and tested again to see if we missed anything when painting and doing all we have done to get rid of it. Hope I get a report next week that says there is none left. Otherwise I don't know what the answer will be. We have put our all into fixing the trailer to get rid of any formaldehyde and to close in the front steps. Just say a few prayers for me that the report is a good one, then the doctors will have to take it from there. Maybe they don't know the answer either, but I am sure I don't.

Have a few things I have to get done today and guess I better go get at it and help Russell. He has done so much for me that I don't want to leave him to do it all.

Merry Christmas, Mrs. Powell, and have a good time with your family. She was my room-mate and lives here in West Paris, too. She was expecting a son to come and spend Christmas, so hope he got there last night and that they have a good time together.

Guess I've said enough for this time and will just repeat to all to have The Best of Holidays and a Great New Year. Maybe I can write more next week and it will sound more like the old me. Take care one and all.

— Mrs. Arline Bernier, Corres. —

Christmas 1984 is history and the shortest day of the year has come and gone. I am always excited about a New Year as it is an unopened surprise package.

Santa Ellie and elves, Virginia and others filled and delivered baskets for 14 senior citizens. Fifteen families donated fruit, candy, nuts, inspirational booklets, baked goodies, doughnuts, and all occasion cards. Thanks neighbors.

The Bergerons entertained several youngsters at a cookie making party Friday evening. These cookies were judged Saturday when the adults joined the overnights for a family dinner and Christmas tree. Enough categories were considered so each youngster got a prize.

The weather has been ideal for Christmas weekend. Snow on the ground and sunny, warm days, right for December.

Armand Lavallee remains in a weak condition and needs to have an oxygen tank with him constantly. He would take pleasure in a card shower, I'm sure. He has a sense of humor and would enjoy the comic cards as much as the sentimental. Hurry before the price of stamps increaes.

The beauty show was a dud — from any angle—maybe there's a better one in the 1985 package.

Roland and Arline Bernier went to the clinic in Colebrook Thursday for a check-up and consultation.

NOTES FROM WOODSTOCK HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Gore Vidal's "Lincoln: A Novel" is indeed an ambitious work. It portrays Lincoln surrounded by dubious contemporaries yet always managing to rise to the situation. And it includes many of his frailties as well: his melancholio, his physical limitations, and his penchant for jokes at inappropriate times. The men who surround him are personally ambitious like Seward, his at first antagoonistic Secretary of State, or Salmon P. Chase, Secretary of the Treasury, who longs to be president but settles for Chief Justice.

And Lincoln's family life is troubled. Mary, his wife, has periods of insanity. One son dies. His wife runs up staggering bills. Many of her relatives are Southern sympathizers.

The subplot about the events leading to Lincoln's assassination is, it seems to us, often thin and unconvincing. Also, many major events while he was in office are glossed over. But his relationship with his young secretary, John Hay, is warm and human. We see Lincoln as real and approachable through his eyes.

On the whole, we recommend reading "Lincoln: A Novel." There is immediacy and insight in it not often found in other treatments of Lincoln as man and statesman.

The Museum has had another military uniform added to its collection—that makes six. Military souvenirs are very popular with visitors, so the Society is grateful for this addition.

MRS. MABEL S. GREENLEAF

Mrs. Mabel Stevens Greenleaf of Bethel died Wednesday evening, Dec. 26, 1984, at Stephens Memorial Hospital, Norway, where she had been admitted earlier in the day.

She was born in Chesterville, Maine, April 30, 1892, the daughter of Joshua and Angelia Riggs Stevens.

Mrs. Greenleaf graduated from Farmington High School in the class of 1911 and she attended Simmons College, Boston, and Worcester Domestic Science School, Worcester, Mass. After a short period of teaching, she married Sherman S. Greenleaf of Starks, Maine. They lived in Chesterville and Skowhegan before moving to Bethel in 1920. Dr. Greenleaf passed away in 1962.

She was a member of the Bethel United Methodist Church in which she was active for many years.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Donald S. Brown (Arlene) of Bethel; three sons, Robert of North Scituate, R.I., and John and Eldon of Bethel; 13 grandchildren, and five great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Saturday, Dec. 29, at the Greenleaf Funeral Home, Bethel, at 1 p.m., with Dale Thurston officiating. Interment will be at Woodland Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home, Friday evening, 7-8 p.m.

Those who wish may contribute in her name to the Maine Special Olympics, c/o Mickey Boutilier, Church St., Gorham, Maine 04038.

MRS. EDITH QUIMBY

Mrs. Edith Cole Quimby died Monday, Dec. 17, 1984 at the Rockingham Nursing Home, Brentwood, N.H., where she had resided for the past several years.

Mrs. Quimby was born Jan. 19, 1879, in Gilead, the daughter of Octave and Victoria Cole, and had lived in Gilead most of her life. She was the widow of Charles Quimby, who died in 1946.

Survivors include one son, Custer Quimby of Raymond, N.H.; three grandchildren; several great grandchildren; several nieces and nephews.

Spring interment will be at the Lary Cemetery, Gilead, with graveside services at that time.

1985 SPRUCE BUDWORM PROJECT LIKELY TO BE SMALLEST IN DECADE

Declining budworm populations make it likely the 1985 spruce budworm project will be the smallest in a decade according to Thomas Rumpf, Forest Insect manager for the Maine Forest Service.

In a preliminary designation of areas needing protection from budworm next year, landowners have asked the Forest Service to treat 575,0616 acres in eight counties.

"I expect this figure to be reduced once buffer zones have been calculated and counts of overwintering larvae are complete. My guess right now is for a 450-475,000 project in '85," Rumpf said.

Landowners have asked the Forest Service to use a biological insecticide, Bt, on about 20% of the lands they have proposed for spraying. A chemical insecticide —mexacarbate—will also be used. Both materials have been used during past spray projects.

The Forest Service evaluates biological, environmental and logistical factors when selecting pesticides for the project. "We choose insecticides on a block by block basis. Bt can be a very effective choice for blocks where water is prevalent and I expect we will use it on more than 20% of the total project," Rumpf said.

Protection of spruce rather than fir trees is a high priority in 1985 as foresters attempt to lessen a potentially serious wood supply problem predicted for 2020. "Last year mexacarbate provided the most consistent spruce protection on a project wide basis of any insecticide in recent years. We're aiming for a repeat performance," Rumpf said.

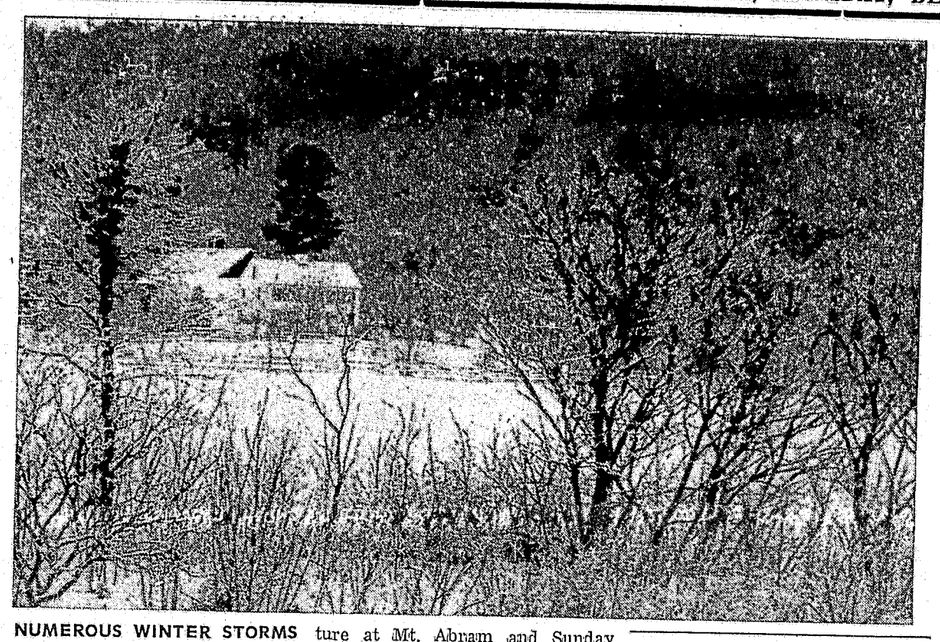
It's worth the trip to Bethel!



NUMEROUS WINTER STORMS made for a very white Christmas this year. The picture-perfect house is the Eddy home on Middle Intervale Road in Bethel. The snow, coming on the heels of a week of rain, brightened the picture at Mt. Abram and Sunday River, both of which had good turnouts over the week end. With the Christmas vacation now upon us, both ski areas are looking forward to record-breaking crowds this coming weekend.

who decided to take charge after hearing that the annual event, first staged in 1964, was about to lapse this year. "We didn't realize it wasn't going to be done (until two weeks before the event)," said Ms. Wheeler.

She had no qualms about jumping in to coordinate it. "I knew all it needed was to get something in the paper. After that it was a cinch with everyone's help."

People and groups from all over the community came out to help. They included: the senior citizens, who provided snacks for the cast between performances; Stanley Howe who made the Moses Mason House available for the performers and had a warming fire going; Cathy and Hazel Newell, who organized the costumes; Jane Rolfe, who helped the performers with their costumes; the Rotary Club, which set up and took down the manger and the corral; Bob Davis and crew, who plowed the Common; the Boy Scouts, who provided the Christmas trees and greenery; Tim Carter, who provided the hay; Brian Strickland, who provided and set up the lights; Peter and Danny Kuzyk, who supplied the animals and operated the lights; Mary Brown, who led the chorus; the two sets of chorus members; and, the Bethel Inn, which provided the podium.

Those who took part in the tableau, aside from the Shedd family, were: the angels, Monica Rolfe, Deanna Ryerson and Shye Buck; the wise men, Dewaine Craig, Rodney Jordan, Matthew Brooks; the gate keeper, Patrick Feeney; the shepherds, Eric and Karen Paul and family, Mike and Linda Gilbert and family, Melody and Garrett Bonnema and family, Ginger Kelly and granddaughters, Roger Conant and daughter, Beth Craig, Jack Brooks, Dan Cousens, Warren Tibbetts, Richard Bernier and Welly (his dog), Sheila Douglass and Toby Parker; manrator, Stephen Chandler. Rev. Jean Bass offered a prayer before each performance.

Ms. Wheeler was pleased with the way things turned out, even though preparations were rushed. "I thought everything went real well. I thought it was really great."

So did those who attended. Many of the out-of-towners came up to Ms. Wheeler afterwards and told her how much they enjoyed it. There were lots of out-of-towners, she said, mostly from the Norway/South Paris and Rumford areas.

Sean Shedd, reflecting on his family's participation in the recreation of the nativity pageant said, "Because of our new baby, it was a special opportunity for her. Both us would like her to grow up in a world of hope—the things Christ represented."

ROTARY CHRISTMAS BASKETS were distributed to 12 needy families last Friday. Rotary Club members Rollie Glines (left) and Jim Monahan helped pack the baskets.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT BETHEL GOSPEL CENTER

Two special services will close out 1984 at the Bethel Gospel Center, Route 26, in Bethel.

First on Sunday at 6 p.m. the film "Noah's Ark and the Genesis Flood" will be shown. In a day of major scientific breakthroughs and vast assimilation of data, with knowledge increasing faster than books can record, are we really to believe the account of Noah and his ship, the Ark, which carried his family to safety?

Secondly on New Year's Eve, Dec. 31, from 8-12 p.m. a watch-night service will be held. Singing, refreshments, candlelight service, communion, and a special film will be shown. The 70 minute film entitled "First Fruit" is a stirring film of pioneer missionary work. The film will be shown from 8:30 to 9:45.

Everyone is invited to attend these special services. There is no admission charge. For further information, call 824-2289.

T.T.A.E.R.S. News

(Tri-Town Ambulance & Emergency Rescue Service)

TriTown extends season's greetings to everyone, hoping for a safe and good 1985.

The auxiliary is meeting Jan. 7 at 7 p.m. at the Community Room of the Bethel Savings Bank in West Paris.

The nominating committee is busy developing a slate of officers for February's annual election of officers.

A by-law change will be voted on at that time to incorporate Search and Rescue as part of the Tri-Town organization, with membership on the board of directors and separate officers.

Safety Tip of the Week

Perhaps we adults could learn a few things from our high school students. The Project Graduation each year has saved lives in the reduced number of people drinking and on the highways. New Year's Eve is a traditional night to party. If you want to celebrate the incoming year with a few drinks, please stay over, or have someone else drive you home. The high school motto is a good one to remember, "Friends don't let friends drive drunk."

CARD OF THANKS

Cub Scout Pack 566 wishes to extend their sincere thank you to: Dennis and Joanne Andre, Christine Hanscom, Barbara Hart, for a great . . . Christmas party . . . Thank you also to Santa.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank all my friends and relatives for the kindnesses shown during my hospitalization and special thanks to the staff of Stephens Memorial Hospital for their special care. It was all greatly appreciated.
